CYNTHIANA NEWS.

CYNTHIANA, --- JULY 14, 1870
A. J. MOREY, EDITOR.

(For the Cynthiana News.)
The Signs of the Times, or Modern Ostracism.

Socrates, after having taught the young Athenians, for many years, those lessons of life that exalted Grecian character, was charged with the crime of corrupting the Grecian youth, because he directed their minds to Virtue and Truth, and was condemned by Athenian Judges to drink the death-producing Hemlock.
One greater than Socrates, who said of himself, 'I am the truth,' and proved his Divinity by doing the works of God, was accused of bla-phemy by a Jewish mob, and was sentenced by a Roman Governor to die on the Cross between two Male-factors.

The present governing generation is, (as far as it can,) repeating history, in every state of intelligence, science, morals, and manners, and imitating, with great fidelity, its Grecian and Roman Patterns. Ability, morals and manners, of a very high order, that impressed our country, in its golden age, are now the exceptions to the general rule, for, unfortunately, they are not in general demand. The human intellect occupies, it is true, a greater attitude in its achievements and in its comprehension of arts and science, at present, than at any prior period of the world's history; but it can not be truthfully said, that the last decade has been prolific in the development of prodigies of Statesmanship, or of minds that now honor, or will in future adorn America's annals.

Peculiar circumstances, or organic changes, (the sure sequence of constitutional government,) have had the effect, in their rapid stride towards the destruction of what is good and great, to dwarf genius, and to compel honor, when allied to genius, to prefer retirement and obscurity to eminence and notoriety, when these can only be by a forfeiture of all that true manhood holds dear. Self-respect and a just pride have caused many a village Hampden, or Madison, to recoil from a test of general suffrage with an opponent sustained by men capable only of inflaming the worst passions of the ignorant and vicious, and who willingly resort to the most ignoble means of obtaining Vox Populi.

The present day presents, to my mind, a sad picture of the general state of morals and perverted intellect. General merit is stripped of her robes. Experience is below par, and not in demand. Ability and moral worth are not appreciated, but are ostracized. The standard of what was once honorable eminence, is lowered within the reach of the ignorant and impudent. All true excellence is almost universally ignored.

The late upheaval in our country was the result caused by the ignition of combustible material made ready for the eruption by pride, selfishness and unprincipled ambition. A spark at the right moment produced a convulsion that shook the republic, prostrating civil government; reversing the social position of good and wise men, burying in neglect and forgetfulness many a ripe and ornate scholar; writing the epitaphs of the pure and worthy in words of scorn and contempt; and exalting the most palpable, shallow and inefficiency to the most important places of trust and honor; while ability, integrity, experience, and wisdom, worthy of and fitted for the most eminent positions, are remembered only by the appreciative few, whose praises of exalted merit and departed greatness are but as autumn winds burdened with seared leaves, bright in color, but gone to decay. How painful the fact! How gloomy the prospect!

The Society of this era presents a still more sad state of mind and morals. Flippancy, in youth, in speaking in terms derogatory of all that is held most dear, and cherished most highly, by a virtuous people, if not encouraged, is tolerated, in every city, town and country village, to such a degree, that neither the pro-prieties of society, the honor of the gentler sex, nor the sanctities of religion, escape the Parthian darts of adolescence. Gray hairs have no claims to respect allowed; lessons of experience gained by many years of study, observation, and toil, are but little appreciated; the most exemplary conduct of either sex has scarcely any influence in checking the unbridled passions of blinded youth; modesty has lost its charm, and is classed with weakness or hypoocrisy; self-distrust is regarded as the plainest evidence of incapacity; good manners have passed away with a better age; boldness is held to be the certain sign of genius; impudence is a sure mark of an expanding intellect; morality is the index of a weak, fearful, and pusillanimous spirit; tyroes are teachers of the profound; sciolists are sounding the depths of science; and snarlers are expounders of law and language.

The exceptional cases are few, and are regarded by an upstart generation, as lacking talent and spirit equal to the necessities of the times.
Nearly every youth whose father's money is sufficient to ruin his son, spreads his canvass to the popular winds, soon to find his professional craft capsize for want of moral ballast, or stranded on the rocks of the most insidious infidelity.

The world really seems "turned upside down," or, "wrong side up." A true picture of the representative youth of the day would be a monstrosity—a head as large and hollow as a drum, making discord—a heart the size of an old fashioned pepper box, loaded with lead—legs and arms as small and brittle as corn stalks—a spine of paste-board—a stomach craving something hot, insatiate, and fed on oysters, alcohol, and rich and costly wines—pockets loaded with pistols and dunks, if not belted around the waist—mounted on a huge mule, with an old fogey behind him, once called "father," but now "the old man" or, "old boss," who is informed by the young monster, that it is his duty to "keep silence," "hold fast," "look on," and "learn wisdom from his promising son." This metamorphosis—this monstrous change—this reversed position of what were once called "boys," is the popular sign of real advancement—of genuine improvement! What a sad mistake! The aged, the experienced, the wise and really meritorious have only "one right left," a sort of "reserved right," the right to go into retirement or obscurity, or the right to be kicked off the platform, when they get too much in the way of the talented young men and sons of science and genius. "The powers that be"—the many headed hydra now governing and controlling public opinion, in all matters of learning, statesmanship, morals and manners —are certainly and rapidly working the downfall of our once glorious country, and producing such changes in civil government and in all the departments of society, as those acquainted with better days, and possessing refinement in morals and manners, (the beauty of the past), will never live to enjoy, because they are too old to take lessons in the school of demoralization. God save my country, my father's and grandfather's glorious, old fashioned, happy country when they lived and ruled.

B. N. CARTER.
Williamstown, Ky., June 27, 1870.

(For the Cynthiana News.)
Reminiscences of Clayville Harrison County, Ky., from 1825 to 1835-40.

MR. EDITOR:—This place was formerly called the mouth of Beaver, so named from a noted creek by that name which empties into Main Licking river at or just above the town.
It took its present name from the illustrious sage of Ashland, Henry Clay. All of the surplus products of Harrison and Bourbon counties, were then conveyed to this place by wagons, and there shipped on flat-boats to New Orleans. These boats were built at this place, there being two boat yards—as they were called —one carried on at the upper end of town by Capt. Whitehead, and the other at the lower end of town by Wm. Jackson. The gunnels for these boats were obtained wherever there was a tree (popular,) of sufficient dimensions to make them, though several miles distant, the length of them being generally from 60 to 80 feet, and 10 to 12 inches thick, and three feet wide, or as wide as the tree would make them. These were conveyed to the yards swung under a wagon, drawn by two or three yoke of Oxen and as many horses.

There were generally, from eight to a dozen workmen employed at each yard. Chief among them was "Uncle," Bob Rankin, as clever and as honest a man as ever lived and died.
The bottom of these boats were made of one and one-fourth inch oak plank, and put on with (wooden) inch pins. This completed, next was the carking, which was performed by twisting hemp-tow and rolling it in pitch-tar, and forcing this cord between the cracks of the plank with an iron chisel made for that purpose. After this process, then came the turning, (it will be recollected they were made bottom upwards, which required twenty or thirty hands, who, after the old Virginia style, were soon procured; after turning then launching came, which was but a light task, when done at the same time of turning the boat, being on rollers. The boats once in the water, they were then sided up with inch poplar plank, to the height of three and a half feet above the gunnels, and covered with weather-boarding plank oval shape, one steeple and two side oars completed them for loading and running.
The freight was conveyed to the boats from the ware-houses by pul-leys on carriage ways. These boats were capable of carrying 2,500 and 3,000 bushels of grain, or from 500 to 600 barrels of whisky. It would be useless to say that Clayville was any thing else then, but quite a business place. It supported two hotels.
At the upper end of town, fronting the river, might be seen at the edge of the street and at the lower end of his porch, a sign suspended between two tall posts representing a bell, with the inscription, in large printed letters, "John Whitehead's Inn," and at the lower end of town, you could see a sign suspended to one tall post, representing the Rising Sun, with the inscription, "Wm. Jackson's Inn." There were other business houses in the place worthy of note.
There was Joseph Steven's carding factory, Daniel Mercer's hat shop, David Dunlap's blacksmith shop, Alexander Curran's tin shop, George William's gun shop, George Pollard's tan shop, boot and shoe shop, by Lee Ander, a colored man, and a store kept by Joshua Lynnhicum, at the upper end of town, in one end of Capt.
Whitehead's ware-house, and just below Whitehead's Tavern on the same side of the street, could be seen over his door in large printed letters, "Samuel Symm's Store," who also carried on a weaving shop.

Wm. Jackson, (the Hotel Keeper) also kept a ferry across the Licking on which (as he informed the writer), he cleared 500 dollars annually, which the readers will not doubt when he is informed, that it was common in the Spring and Fall of the year, to see as many as fifteen wagons cross here in one day. The principal teamsters were Monis Dills, Larkin Garnett, Sen., Martin Smith, — Ewalt, — Piper, or Grant Glinn, and Parker Whiteker, the last one mentioned, (and with whom the writer is more familiarly acquainted) is as clever and as honest a man as ever cracked a whip on the Burns and Locust hills, (two noted hills on the old dirt road between Clayville and Augusta.) Good luck to you Parker, long may you live, and enjoy old age with pleasure.

There is not much business carried on in Clayville at the present writing. There is only one hotel, and one store kept at the old brick corner, by J. J. Curran, the present post master, and as true a gentleman as ever lived. Success to you J. J. my old friend,
OLD TIMES.

TERENCE MCGRANT.
F. S.—Whin I arrive in New York

(From Pomeroy's N. Y. Democrat.)
TERENCE MCGRANT.

OMAHA, NEBRASKA, June 25.
MISER PUMMERY—Last night I was at Niagara Falls, enjoying the prodigious washie of water, and after engaging rooms for me Cousin Ulisses and the balance of the family for a portion of the summer, the hotel pape took ivery precaution to kape me from dying of thirst. Begorra, they gave me more different kinds of highwines than iver I was after drinking in won day at me cousin's table, and that is putting it moighty shtrong, ye can asily believe. Jist as I was after getting in a condition to buy all the loose property around there, and was negotiating wid a gintlemen to place a "rope across jist above the falls for me cousin and meself to give Blondon exhibitions during the hot months, for the benefit of the inhabitants, I received a telegram from me cousin, as follows: WASHINGTON, June 2.

COUSIN TERENCE:—Inclosed ye will find Red Cloud, General Sheridan and other savages on the thrain going wesht. I want you to mix in wid them, and find all about the plans of the savages for the future. You must get drunk wid them, slape wid them, and go wid them to the plains, and report, till me that the are going to do. Especially make it a point to pump the shquaws as to that they think of the people they met in Washington. Let the noble red men do that they will with you, and if you still live, your reward shall be great.
Red Cloud is an honor to his sex, and as soon as he knows you as I do, he will do anything to make you happy. I drink your health at your expense, and will deduct the price of the imbibation from your salary.

Your cousin,
ULISSES.
Av course I accepted the situation, and soon found meself on the thrain, going wesht. One ear was given up to the Indians and emigrants, and the shmell that came till me noshtils was ivery bit equal to a Sanitary Commission funeral. I introduced meself to Red Cloud, when he tuck me be one hand and shook it, and wid the other he felt of the hair on me head, and said it was a heap good.
I didn't know the ominous maning of these simple words of the playful aborigines as well then as I do now, and towld him that me cousin and meself were firm friends of the red devils of whom he was chief, and that we would howld ourselves in residence at all times to accept any little testimonial they might see fit to bestow upon us. This seemed to plaze the savage, and he playfully extracted me watch from me pocket and shoved it down his trousers leg.
At this we all laughed, but me watch remained there it was put, and does yet. I can asily imagine the chagrin of the poor Indian when his untuored mind discovers that the watch is oride. There was no exciting episode until we arrived in Chicago, from the fact that we tuck in a supply of fishky at Detroit, thich made us oblivious until we arrived in Chicago. At this place a party of gentlemen come on board to receive us. They said that the Common Council of Chicago had appointed them a committee to show us all the attention possible, but in the first place it would be necessary to search us to see that we had no revolvers and shcaling-knives. We submitted to this, all except meself. I towld them that me position of Assistant President of the United States should relave me from any such impertinence, but they insisted that it was a cushion in Chicago that everybody arriving there should be examined—a cushion, allow me to say, "more honored in the breeches" pecket than in the observance," as they say in Hamlet's ghost. However, we let them go through us, and after we had gone Wesht we found the committee that examined us were nothing but pickpockets, and didn't lave us hardly enough money to mintion. However, we arrived in Omaha, where I had expected to lave me frinds, the savages. Red Cloud insisted that I should get on a horse and go out on the plains a short distance wid them, and rather than have any herd feelings, I did so.
Begorra, I was unlucky for meself I did so. Then I got ready to part wid the party, and return to Omaha, he said he wanted some trophy to remember me by, and before I knew it he had jumped from his horse, knocked me down wid a Thomas hawk, and tuck the whole top of me head off wid a knife me cousin had given him. He said he was bound to have peace wid the fhte people, if he had to fight for it, and waving me auburn locks in the air, he put shurs to the horse the Government gave him, and meandered across the plains for his home at the setting sun.
I bound me head up wid a bit of buckskin, and returned to Omaha, where I am now thrying to make George Francis Thrain believe it is his duty to the Fenian cause to send me home at his expense. Yer peeled headed friend,

The Plotters Against White Labor.

The coolie business is now one of the most exciting topics in the news market, and all evidences of their peculiar ideas of matters and things in general, and their past experiences as combatants against white labor, are given close attention. An earnest scrutiny of the historical events connected with their careers in the past shows that they have always been the enemy of white man; that their remarkably niggardly trait, their dishonesty, their wretched system of pilfering and lying, and their general lack of decency, have compelled white men to drive them from their associations. It is not a great many years ago that an entire colony of them were driven, bag and baggage, from the district in which they lived. Their thievery and general immoral entlawies coupled with their encroachments upon white men's rights, caused the miners of Australia, in the district of Sydney, to rise up in a body and drive the coolies from the region. There was scarcely a man who had intelligence enough to appreciate the wrongs these coolies were cunningly trying to heap upon them, but who rose up and fought them bravely. British troops were called out, and desperate scenes ensued, but the workmen in the diggings could not be put down; their rights of labor were at stake, and they determined to maintain them. They did it, and not until every Chinaman had been driven for miles away from the camp, did they submit to the attacks of the British troops. Their point was gained, and having no cause to combat the soldiers, they ceased the struggle.

This shows merely the extremely hazardous nature of the question which is now coming before the workmen of this country.
Coolies have been brought here under contract to work for a term of years at whatever wages the speculating capitalists may fix upon. These plotters against white labor, have nothing to lose, but much to gain.
Coolie labor will build up their fortunes. The destruction and disorganization of white labor, and the routing of trades unions will give them a prestige which will aid them in securing political notoriety, and bring them to the occupancy of the positions, for the attainment of which they have hatched this coolie plot.

The workmen of this country, whose earnest and honest labor leads them not beyond the homely practices of domestic life must now be alert. Unscrupulous capitalists who have the money to stake are after the life-blood which gives them sustenance. A scheme is going on to overthrow them, and vigilance must now be the price of labor's liberty.
The unfortunate coolies, who may of their natural instincts possess traits of character much to their detriment, and bring upon them the curse of all who ever lived near them, are not the men to bear the onus of this obloquy that is coming.
Their ignorance of the country's customs has been taken advantage of, and the plotters for political power in the detouring of the king of labor bring it to bear to effect their object.

Workingmen look alive. The critical period is coming. By your firm denunciations of this outrage show the people of the world that the laboring classes in America can not be tampered with. We want no violence. It is not necessary. But the moral effect of firm standing by the solid prerogatives of labor, the unanimous spurning of these schemers' plots, will drive them from the land, and they will take with them China and to ignominy their unhappy hords of coolies.
Workingmen do not falter.
Keep the spirit of your rights earnest and firm, and labor will soon triumph. In the defeat of this coolie scheme all plotters against the liberty of the workingman of America will experience their extinguishment.

Now is the time; now is the hour.

The man who sat down on a paper of tacks said they reminded him of the Income tax.

A sign on an eating house on the New Jersey Railroad says, "Cor-fee and fresh laid eggs by Mrs.
Jones."

Good health is but a proper mixture of pure air, wholesome food, physical amusements, mental recreations, moral pleasures, sparkling water, habits of industry, cleanliness, and sweet naps.

No great man ever thought himself one.

MASS MEETING.

To prevent dissensions in the Democratic party, and the election of a Radical candidate for Judge of the Police Court, the undersigned Democrats of Cynthiana, would respectfully suggest that a Mass Meeting of Democrats be held at the Court House, on Saturday, the 23d of July, at 4 o'clock, to nominate a candidate for that office. The Radicals already have out a candidate, and it would be shameful, if the Democrats permit him by their dissensions to be elected.

THE CHINESE BUTCHERY OF CHRISTIANS.

A most horrid butchery of Christians, residing at Pekin, has just taken place. The news of this outbreak of pagan fanaticism has been sent around the world by telegraph. The massacre occurred on the 21st of last June. The natives of Pekin slaughtered the French Secretary of Legation, and a number of Priests and Sisters of Mercy—and burned a Cathedral. They also killed a number of Russians.

This will no doubt solve the Chinese question, for between two such powerful governments as the French and Russian, the gentlemen in Pig-tails, will be used up and that too without much ceremony.

This is a fine beginning and in all respects quite a cheerful recommendation for those millionaires, in Massachusetts, who propose to employ so many Chinese laborers to the exclusion of the poor white native laborer.

THE TWENTY-SECOND SENATORIAL DISTRICT.

Robertson, Harrison and Scott counties, compose the 22nd Senatorial District, and as a vacancy has occurred by the death of the Senator representing the District, an election has been ordered by the Governor, to take place on the first Monday in August.

This is just as it should be, and we endorse the action of the Governor or acting Governor, P. H. Leslie, in fixing the day for Monday. Some people in this district wanted the election put off until November next. There is no election for State officers at that time, and it would be unjust to have any extra expense incurred, and taxes increased simply to please a few whose ideas may float impracticably through their heads.

The people of Robertson and Harrison counties want the election immediately, and we believe that a large portion of the Scott county Democracy desire it, and will unite with us in nominating a candidate. We have no anxiety as to who that candidate shall be, so that he is a Democrat, and is a member of the White Man's Party.

Politically speaking these are peculiar times. An unscrupulous and unprincipled party is in power, and have control of the general government. That party would not hesitate to disfranchise every white man in Kentucky, if they believed it would be popular enough in the North to keep them united and in power. Considering then, the times and the contemptible crew we have to deal with, it is our duty to our country and to our party to close up a breach as soon as possible.

AN EUROPEAN WAR.

That old rotten Tyranny, called Spain, is about to turn Europe upside down. The infamous organization called the government of Spain has been a blot upon God's green earth for many hundred years, and to sustain and keep it up and running has cost much blood and treasure. It has recently passed through a revolution, and the people have driven from their midst their harlot Queen, Isabella. Gen. Prim has control of the Executive Department since her departure, but during his Dictatorship the Nobility of Spain have been looking anxiously for another King to put upon the Throne from which they recently drove the Queen, and it has been authoritatively announced that a German Prince—Prince of Hohenzollern, has been tendered the "situation," and has accepted it. The French Emperor says he shall not have it because he has too much Prussian blood coursing his veins, and is making every preparation for war. Prussia will take the opposite side of the question, and will help Spain to a new King—and this new Prince to a throne, if it should cost money and blood.

Personally we are in favor of the fight. We hope it will be a big one. In that case Cuba will become a free country, and relieved of her Spanish invaders, very soon.

RADICAL KU-KLUX IN PENNSYLVANIA.

The Pottsville Miner's Journal, gives its readers the following warning, which when we remember that it emanates from a Radical State, like Pennsylvania, or one which has a radical Governor and State officers, prepares our mind at once for reconstruction:

"It is strange that farmers will allow their sons, mere boys, to go on errands alone and without firearms, after the terrible warnings they have had of the danger connected with them. The murder of young Yohe, but a few weeks ago, should have been a sufficient warning that no man or boy should drive to market, alone with anything to sell. The roadsides throughout the country, it would seem are lined with hungry men, who, through desperation, are driven to this method of maintaining themselves. They are cowardly, and will not attempt an open-handed fight, but will shoot down their victims in cold blood from ambush, without a moment's warning, for the sake of securing a few paltry dollars. We can give our farmers no better advice than tell them not to venture to market alone, but in all cases let two or three go together, and let them then go well armed and prepared to meet the assassins who lurk in ambush and wait for their prey."

Had this been done in a Southern State, or even in Kentucky, a radical hue-and-cry would have been raised which would not have been hushed until the facts had reached the Committee on Reconstruction in Congress—and an application would have immediately been sent to the Great Presidential Ignoramus, to send a shoulder-strapped loafer with a number of soldiers to steal the peoples living and drive them from the country, or arrest them without cause, and throw them in prison. But here is a case where the boot happens to be on the wrong foot, and nobody seems to be distressed about their welfare. No low-down contemptible scallawag or carpet-bagger has located in that section, who desires to rob the people and put those out of the way whom they despise—but we do find that radical oppression and misrule is working out a terrible condition of affairs in Pennsylvania as well as elsewhere.

That the enormous taxation which is levied and collected to sustain a bondholding aristocracy, is bringing upon the country to want and poverty woe and anarchy, and that the poor white man of Pennsylvania have been driven to desperation by the exacting oppressions and radical Government officials.

Here is a case where the Government won't give the people the natural protection which they need to carry on the simple business of marketing—and that too in the great State of Pennsylvania.

The people there pay heavy taxes, nearly or quite as much as our people do for the purpose of receiving protection.

But no protection is extended to them—they have no protection from the tax collector on one side, nor from the desperate poor man and robber on the other side.

Taxes are paid now a-days to sustain a herd of government officeholders, blood suckers, stock-jobbers, and thieves.

In broad day light, on the great highway, in the State of Pennsylvania, governed and officered by Psalm-singing whang-doodle republicans, men are shot down without any cause except that of desperation—and that means starvation.

We had supposed from reading a radical paper recently that all the heathens and barbarians were South of the Ohio river, but Pennsylvania radicals cannot refer to their neighbors in this respect and leave Pennsylvania out and do it truthfully again.

She has Bush whackers, Ku-Klux, and all other classes of people, who will when oppressed and driven to desperation make themselves felt, in a manner which were it to occur in a Southern State would bring down upon her—the whole power of the radical party.

JONES ON STEVENSON, AGAIN.

Recently Stevenson, the Governor, published a short reply to Hon. T. L. Jones' long and able vindication of himself, in which the said Stevenson made several blunders, one about his religion. Col. Jones has published another reply, from which we take the following extract:

"But he concludes, 'A duel will not fight. For more than thirty years I have been a professor of the Christian religion,' &c. I fear a professor only. He will not fight himself, but is perfectly willing to see and make others fight, if he can. Which is the worse for a Christian gentleman? This plea for public sympathy is somewhat disguised."

One might suppose that this man had been challenged to fight a duel. I have heard of no such thing. I certainly never thought of challenging him, and know of no one who made any such intimation. The onus was altogether on him, and yet he leads the public to infer that somebody has challenged him. If he had put it fairly he should have said that he declined to challenge any one himself; that he submitted to indubitable proofs of numberless untruths, to an honest and just denunciation, and had slipped behind the curtains of the church, which were so charitable and merciful as to cover him even with a falsehood hot on his lips.

He puts himself in the category of the man "who cried enough before he was hit." "The wicked flee when no man pursueth." A refusal to fight a duel by an acknowledged high, courageous and religious man cannot be too much commended, and society and the church should hold him at all the more pure and irreproachable but while this may be the citadel of the brave and pure, it is always the subterfuge of the coward and scoundrel. True religion never vaunteth itself. I beg pardon for mentioning it, but perhaps it is not known except by those who have worshipped with me, that I, too, am a member of the church; most unworthy I confess, humble in deed. I make no mawkish professions of piety, and I know I fall very far short of a "strict regard to every duty, public and private," even for one year, much less "thirty-two," I trust in God that my religion is rather that of the Samaritan than Levite; that of the Publican than the Pharisee. But no man knows me ever to have lied and slandered, or to have violated the commandment, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

STUPENDOUS RASCALITY.

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune (Radical) furnishes that paper with some figures in connection with the reconstruction of the Southern States, which while showing how the poor people of the South have been oppressed and robbed by the negroes, scallawags and carpet-baggers, who under Radical auspices have been assigned the work of "bringing back these States into the Union," must convince every well-disposed man that a party which countenances such stupendous rascality is unworthy to be kept in power for a single day.

In North Carolina the scallawag ring of Joe Holden, Dewese, Jenkins, and G. W. Swenson have increased the debt of the State since the war $23,000,000. This vast amount has been almost entirely appropriated to railroads, of which not more than one has ever built a mile.

The State debt of Louisiana since the peace has been increased $18,000,000. The city of New Orleans has a special debt of excessive amount besides. The ring in this State is composed of Warmouth, the Governor of Illinois; General Lee, of New York; General McMillan, of Ohio; one Fish, and Michael Hahn, a native.

Parties in the ring who at the close of the war were poor are now worth a million or more.

In Tennessee the State debt has been increased since war $40,000,000. The total debt is now $60,000,000. The thieves went under when Stokes was defeated for Governor, and they are making strenuous efforts to have the game of reconstruction played over, so that they may have another opportunity to plunder the people.

In Georgia "the Ku-Klux clan is a standing political transparency, and Oliver P. Morton, in the United States Senate, and B. F. Butler, in the House, mutually pass it to and fro, like a couple of advertising promenade." The whole policy and sole hope of the plunder set in the South is to invent and spread diabolical stories of massacres, murders, rapes, masked batteries, etc., etc., and under cover of these lies to cut out the militia, and keep the better populace by intimidation from the polls. This is the game. This is the device. The object is entirely vulpine.

In Virginia the debt has been increased until it amounts now to $40,000,000. But with an honorable man for Governor and with a show of free voting it is hoped the State may be brought out of its difficulties.

South Carolina, with an enormous debt, "is bound hand and foot by designing men," and "Florida is carpet-bagged and scallawagged to despair by the Reads, Gleasons and Hamiltons who ride her." And so on to the end of the chapter.

Is it not marvelous, the patience with which the people of the South have borne all this oppression—this systematized robbery and plunder?

DEMOCRATIC MEETING HELD AT THE COURT HOUSE IN CYNTHIANA.

HEALTH'S BEST DEFENCE.

"The weak catfish herbs," says St. Paul, so that eighteen hundred years ago the value of medicinal plants was appreciated. In the Old Testament botanical remedies are repeatedly recommended, but in no passage of sacred history is man recommended to swallow calomel, or blue pill, or any other mineral preparation. The sick were directed to eat herbs to strengthen them, to purify them, to heat them, to restore them. In that day the art of making vegetable extracts was unknown. The herbal medicines were mere infusions.

It was reserved for a later age to unite the salutary essences of tonic aperient and antibilious roots, barks, and plants, with an active stimulant, and thus secure their rapid diffusion through the debilitated or disordered system. The crowning triumph of this science was the concentrating and applying the virtues of medicinal vegetables was achieved in the production of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Never before has a perfectly pure alcoholic stimulant been combined with the expressed juices of the finest species of the vegetable kingdom. Never yet, though eighteen years have elapsed since its introduction, has this great restorative been equalled. It is taken at all seasons, in all climates, as the most potent safeguard against epidemics, as a protection against all unhealthy exhalations that produce debility or beget disease; as a remedy for intermittent and other malarious fevers; as an appetizer; as a sovereign cure for dyspepsia; as a general tonic and invigorant; as a gentle, painless aperient; as a blood purifier; as a nerve; as a cure for bilious affections; as a harmless anodyne; and as the best DEFENCE OF HEALTH under unfavorable circumstances, such as sedentary pursuits, undue bodily or mental exertion, hardship, privation and exposure.

AN AWFUL PESTILENCE.

With the season of fruits come the dangers of that frightful pestilence—Cholera. What untold and indescribable misery it has brought into thousands of households in our land every year for generations past. A specific and certain preventive as well as a speedy and absolute cure for this awful disease is the Great Household Remedy, now known all over the world as Mishler's Herb Bitters. It will positively fortify the system against the attacks of Asiatic Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, Diarrhoea, Summer Complaint, Dysentery, Cholera, Painters' Cholera, &c. D. H. Bissell, M. D., Physician-in-Chief of the U. S. Hospital Ship "Falcon," highly recommends it for Cholera, and has used it with marvellous success in such cases. It acts like an angel of mercy in every instance. Sold by all druggists and dealers. Dr. S. B. Hartman & Co., Proprietors, Lancaster, Pa.

Religious.

The Rev. Dr. George S. Sayage, Agent for the "American Bible Society," in the Eastern District of Ky., desires to meet all who have an interest in this work, at the Presbyterian Church, next Sabbath morning at 11 o'clock.

Handsomely Done.

Mrs. J. A. Cook, sent us a fine lot of early York cabbage, tomatoes and beets, all raised in her garden, and the finest of her gatherings this year, for which she will accept our thanks. We understand that Mrs. C. and her family will start East this morning to spend a few days in a cool country. We wish them much good luck.

The Grand Concert.

Which came off at the Court House last week, was a great success. All the particulars will be published in our next week's issue.

Extra Wheat.

G. W. Richter, is the owner of a field of 16 acres of wheat, which he thinks will make 25 bushels to the acre.

Grass Around the Court House.

The City of Cynthiana has built a good pavement around the Court House, and made other improvements, which expense should have been borne by the County Court. Now would it not look well for the County Court to keep their part on the different fronts clean and clear of grass and weeds, so that the people could go in and out. Its needs cleaning very much.

Whisky Trade.

Cook & Ashbrook, shipped ten barrels of old Whisky to Luther Adams & Co., Boston, Mass., last week, for which they realized $2 50 per gallon.

Licking Bridge.

Mr. Green Remington is the County Commissioner, to see after public property, &c., for the county. Will he permit us to direct his attention to the filthiness of Licking Bridge. It should be cleaned—and we understand some plank is needed for flooring. Also, the stone on the South side of the bridge needs repairing. We have heard much complaint from our citizens of this Bridge, and we hope to see a change made in it immediately.

Died.

Mr. James Chandler, son of Henry Chandler, once well known in Harrison county, died suddenly. June 16th, at his home, in Decatur county, Indiana. Perhaps, aged about 70 years.

Capt. C. Holton, an old and well known citizen of Grant county, died at his residence in Crittenden, on the 28th of June.

Sabbath School Organization.

I will organize a Sabbath School at Trickett, next Sabbath morning, at half-past nine o'clock, and will preach at eleven. Come everybody and bring your children.

J. N. BARDEE.

Kimbrough Estate.

A. W. Lydick, Auctioneer, sold the Real Estate, last Monday, in Cynthiana, for Maj. Kimbrough, Dr. Hodges, Special Commissioner.

A Farm of 147 acres, one mile from Cynthiana, was sold to Mr. Orr, of Nicholas county, for $70 25 per acre.

One Farm of 142 acres, in Nicholas county, to James Griffith, Esq., for $22 per acre.

The Distillery with about 44 acres of land near Leesburg, for $1,965, to Thos. Arnette.

Court Day.

Last Monday was County Court in this place, and the following stock was sold by A. W. Lydick, Auctioneer:

One yoke of oxen $150; 5 long yearling steers $40 25; 10 long yearling steers $42 85; 9 long yearling steers $36 75; 6 two year olds steers $81; 15 two year olds steers $52 35; 3 yearling heifers $31 50; 1 yoke Oxen $127; 6 calves $28 25; a few horses sold at fair prices, but few mules on the market.

Covington Items.

The Covington Council was brought before the Circuit Court on Saturday for contempt, in refusing to execute the judgment of a Court. They were subsequently released and allowed to go home, but are to appear again in Court on Thursday, when a final disposition of their cases will be made.

The hardware store of DeGarmo & Simpeon, at the corner of Pike and Madison streets, was burglarized on Sunday night last. The thieves effected their entrance through the cellar, and carried off about $200 worth of pocket-knives.

One hundred and four barrels of whisky, belonging to H. C. Lloyd & Co., seized some time ago by Collector Nixon, have been released by order of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The colored citizens of Covington exercised the privilege of voting the other day on a hog ordinance. They voted that the hogs be allowed to run at large.

Mr. Editor of the News:—As our Profession is that of Veterinarian, and we are often asked do you know what will cure chicken colera, we answer we do, and to give general publication to our remedy which has proven so beneficial, we give you our Prescription.

Take one pound of meal, 1 oz. of borax, (either pulverize or dissolve in water) mix well into a dough and feed to your chickens, it is an infallible remedy. We will stake our reputation on this.

T. B. S. & D. W. H.

More anon for the Farmer.

Pic-Nic.

On Saturday, our Methodist and Christian friends in Ruddle's Mills united and gave a large Sunday School Pic-Nic, in which all were highly delighted and pleased. Fennell's Cornet Band from Cynthiana, furnished the music for the occasion, and Elder R. M. Gano, made an excellent address to the children, which pleased and satisfied everybody.

The best part of the whole affair was the fact that the Editor of this paper received a basket of the whitest cake of all kinds, which it has been his pleasure to behold for many months.

Police Court.

The following persons have been fined for violating City Ordinances. W. T. Garrett, $1 and cost. Wm. Horrine, $5 and cost. David Coston, $1 and cost. James Smith, (colored) $2 and cost.

Hon. Andrew Lebus.

On yesterday Hon. Andrew Lebus, brother to our School Commissioner, called at our office. He is a resident of the State of Illinois, and informs us that the crops of that State never looked more promising. Democracy in that State is in the ascendancy since the promulgation of the Fifteenth Amendment.

The Yeoman says a magnificent new Christian church is soon to be built in Frankfort. Mrs. Emily Tubman, of Augusta, Georgia, is now on a visit to her relations in Frankfort, and it is said she is about accomplishing one of the long cherished purposes of her life, the erection of a first class Christian Church building in her native city. This act of Christian generosity, continues the Yeoman, will indeed be a fitting monument to so useful a life as she has lived. Bethany, Millersburg, Augusta, Atlanta, and other places throughout the South, have schools and churches that attest her generous charities; but the crowning act of her long and useful life will be the erection of this splendid church building in the place where she was born and raised.

Horse Trade.

J. T. Nichols sold a fine Horse in Paris last Monday, for $300. Good.

A GREAT STEAMBOAT RACE.

Last week the Mississippi River Steamboat men were under a huge excitement. A great race came off between two New Orleans and St. Louis packets—the "R. E. Lee," and the "Natchez." The Lee won the race, running from New Orleans to St. Louis, in three days, eighteen hours and fourteen minutes, the Natchez making it in 4 days, and forty-one minutes. The Lee was built in Louisville—the Natchez in Cincinnati. They are splendid running steamboats.

Kentucky Fairs.

The following are the times and places for holding a number of Fairs in this State.

Cynthiana, Tuesday, Sept. 13th, 4 days.
Bourbon Fair, Sept. 16th, 4 days.
Stanford, July 28th, 2 days.
Danville, Aug. 23d, 4 days.
Richmond, Aug. 9th, 4 days.
Winchester, Aug. 23d, 4 days.
Harrodsburg, Sept. 6th, 4 days.
Lebanon, Aug. 30th, 4 days.
Bardonia, Sept. 27th, 5 days.
State Fair Henderson, Oct. 4th, 5 days.
Paducah, Oct. 11th, 4 days.
Georgetown, Aug. 16th, 3 days.
Mt. Sterling, Aug. 16th, 3 days.
Nicholasville, Aug. 21, 3 days.

District Senatorial Election.

The Georgetown Times is responsible for the following: Acting Governor Leslie, as will be seen by the proclamation published elsewhere, has ordered an election to be held on the 1st day of August to fill the vacancy in the State Senate, caused by the death of Hon. J. T. Martin, from this district. We didn't see the necessity, (and don't now see it,) for such haste in the matter. Less than three weeks will elapse until election day, and so far as we are advised no action has been taken in any county of this district, in regard to making a nomination. The Democracy of Scott will meet on Monday next to appoint delegates to the Congressional Convention—the same meeting can, and we presume will appoint delegates to a Senatorial Convention, if one is to be held.

Since the death of J. T. Martin the name of Col. W. P. Duval, of this county, has been very favorably mentioned as his successor. He would make an excellent legislator, and would faithfully represent the wishes of his constituents.

Town Talk.

The weather is extremely warm in Cynthiana, just at this time. Dogs are scarce on the street, that is something new for Cynthiana. The Common Council have repealed the dog law. We understand that a new dog law will be enacted soon.

New Items.

The Circuit Court of Bourbon county, met last Monday. Elder Dr. L. L. Pinkerton, has announced himself a radical Candidate for Congress, in the Paris District.

The Crops.

In Owen, we have had fine rains for the last week, and Corn and Tobacco are doing well. Wheat is mostly cut and was much better than expected. Some of our farmers have made an extraordinary crop. Mr. Scott Bond had fifty acres in wheat, a large portion of it is represented as equal to Missouri wheat.

Owen News.

From the Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer.
A LIE ABOUT LEE.
Some weeks since Harper's Weekly, having published a false and malicious charge against Virginia's noble son, that he remained in Gen. Scott's service as a member of his staff until the last moment before joining the "Lost Cause," in order to obtain full knowledge of that officer's plans of future operations, Major Sidney Herbert, editor of the Troy Messenger and Advertiser, felt called upon in view of his official knowledge of the facts of the case (he being at the commencement of the war staff officer at Washington) to refute the false charge and defend the honor of Gen. Lee. That he was right in his statements, and that his good intentions have been fully appreciated by Gen. Lee, is clearly shown by the following very modest letter which Major Herbert has just received from the gallant old hero, and which he kindly permits us to give to the public through the columns of the Enquirer:

LEXINGTON, VA., June 29, 1870.
DEAR SIR: I am much obliged to you for the kind sentiments expressed toward me in your reply from the Messenger and Advertiser, of which you are editor, to the erroneous assertions of Harper's Weekly respecting myself. Though it is difficult to learn the truth, the facts in the charge cited might, I think, have been easily ascertained inasmuch as I never belonged to the military family of Gen. Scott, or served near his person except when in Mexico, when I was attached to the general staff of the army in that country. Thanking you for the refutation of the charge, and for your kind wishes I am very respectfully, Your obedient servant,
R. E. LEE.
Maj. SIDNEY HERBERT, Troy, Ala.

(From the London Times, June 23.
First Meeting of the Bible Revisers.

The revisers of the authorized version of the New Testament met for the first time yesterday, at the Jerusalem Chamber, at 12 o'clock, and sat for upwards of five hours. The Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol acted as chairman. The Holy Communion was administered at 11:30 by the Dean of Westminster in Henry the Seventh's chapel, and was attended by all the members of the company with the exception of three or four, including those unavoidably absent from London owing to illness or special engagement. Twenty were present, including the Bishop of Llandaff, the chairman of the Old Testament company.

General News.

It is understood at Washington that Gen. Butler is to be the next Governor of Massachusetts. If it has all been fixed at Washington, it will save Massachusetts the bother of an election.
